New IDEAL-Arcola Radiator-Boiler

Puts IDEAL HOT WATER HEATING comfort at low cost in cottages, flats, or stores, with or without cellars.

The IDEAL-Arcola takes the place of a parlor stove. But a stove wastes much of its heat up the chimney, whereas the IDEAL-Arcola is water-jacketed, and conveys its heat by hot water circulation through pipe-connected AMERICAN Radiators stationed in the adjoining rooms. Every bit of the big volume of heat developed from each pound of fuel is therefore made useful in keeping ALL the rooms uniformly, healthfully warm. There is no coal-waste. The IDEAL-Arcola does not rust out or wear out—will outlast the building—is a genuine, permanent investment!

Shipped complete ready for immediate operation

The beauty of the IDEAL-Arcola method is that no cellar is needed. Everything is on one floor. The Arcola is placed in any room that has a chimney connection. No running to cellar. If there are two or more tenants in the building, each can have his own Arcola and make the temperature to suit his own needs—can make his own climate! If you do not wish at first to heat the entire building, buy a small size IDEAL-Arcola and later on buy extra sections for the IDEAL-Arcola and two or three more radiators to warm more rooms.

Simple way of heating a four-room cellarless cottage by IDEAL-Arcola Radiator-Boiler and three AMERICAN Radiators.

Cleanly heating—healthful heating—free from fire risk!

Unlike stoves, there are no coal-gas leaks into the living-rooms. The IDEAL-Arcola delivers the soft, radiant warmth of hot water—not the dry, burnt-out atmosphere of stove heating. There is no fire-risk to building—no danger to children—fire lasts for hours! The Arcola burns hard or soft coal, coke, gas, or wood. Brings cost of heating down to the lowest notch—and gives IDEAL comfort.

VON TIRPITZ STORY OF GERMAN DEFEAT

Charlottesville, Oct. 11, 1914.—The fall and manner of taking Antwerp has made an impression abroad. The strength of the German position is wonderful. It is standing here in the west against three nations in the east against the slovenly Austrians, and we must disengage. Today we once more have news that Turkey is about to go forward, but I will not believe it until shots have been fired. They have promised too often.

One is glad of the fine weather for the sake of the poor fellows in the trenches, although the French would not have stood rain as well as we. A strange war! From the Vosges via Paris to the channel one long temporary ring of forts on both sides which could only be stormed at the cost of the greatest bloodshed. On the other side, a fortress built at the cost of hundreds of millions taken in twelve days with no great losses.

The airplane and motor play an undreamed-of part as indeed do all modern weapons. Bridges and tunnels which formerly took years to build are constructed in a fortnight. Witnessing the tremendous diligence on the part of our people cannot but bring the conviction that they cannot be conquered. Only the silent pressure of sea power is to be feared.

As Herr von Heydebrand (leader of the Prussian war party in the Reichstag) said in 1911, "England is the enemy." It is revealing to see how the fellows carry on their sport while Europe is lacerating itself.

Editor's note: In the American and British armies, and to a certain extent in the French, sports and all competitive games were played under an organized system and were valuable in keeping up the morale of the men and developing resourcefulness and alertness.

Everyone is still very uncertain as to where the Belgian army is since the fall of Antwerp. Probably they got off to England and Holland in civilian dress.

Charlottesville, October 11, 1914.—Commanded to dine with the emperor this evening. Probably because of the U-boat successes in the Gulf of Finland where Graf Berghelm's son sank several Russian warships. What a pity they were not English!

In Brussels we found an excited population and only a few German troops, including a naval detachment of 5,000 concentrated at the law courts.

Germany Loses Initiative.

One of Field Marshal von Goltz's officers told me that at a time when the civil population did not know whether the Germans were beginning Antwerp or the Belgians besieging Brussels, a civilian said to him, "But, Monsieur, you are the enemy!"

"But," he added, "after the fall of Antwerp the opinion changed somewhat." It is strange how unpopular we are and how our whole diplomatic service has broken down.

Charlottesville, October 15, 1914.—We are in great suspense here waiting further events in the north. Here and there are expressed doubts as to a decided success. The English have crept along the sea and stand high in the north. I do not know whether we shall be able to take Calais.

In the French headquarters there is said to be a good deal of depression, and it is reported that the colored troops do not get along well with the white. The fall of Antwerp made a great impression on the London public. But the fabrication of lies in London exceeds all belief.

Charlottesville, October 15, 1914.—To my mind the new army drive is nearly the last trump we have to play. They are not at all certain here that it will be a success. If it does not succeed, then what Jagow predicted today as to the end of the war will take place. He thinks the war will stagnate and die slowly from general exhaustion. That would be bad for us.

That the conclusion of peace will not satisfy the German people is what I fear. I do not for one minute believe in the overthrow of our people. A people who have shown such splendid qualities as the Germans in this trying war cannot be overthrown. Whether the inheritance which we shall leave to our children will be a rich one is another matter.

Foresees Social Upheaval.

The method of our government will have to alter, whether of its own free will or by force. I read today some extracts from a Socialist paper which pleased me very much. Social democracy has comprehended that its international idea is an Utopia in a world of hard realities. The English have not comprehended that not Russia but England is the enemy with whom we have to fight.

At Antwerp we saw that it had political leaders. Also one cannot but wonder at times whether our new military leaders will not get too cautious after the failure of their predecessors.

Our U-boats are doing their work splendidly, but our couriers in this case we must reckon with accidents. Charlville, October 18, 1914.—As for the fruits of victory we have yet to account. The luck was ours at first and we gambled it away. At present the only thing for us to do is to hold out as long as possible and let the others come on. I fear we are going to disappoint the German people after the terrible sacrifices they have made and the loss of life. They will expect more than we can ever give them. If we do not take the reins into our hands in regard to the home policy we will be forced to reform which will go to the heart of the matter.

If the war should stagnate and slowly die out, it will be all over with Germany in the world. We are so surrounded by the hate and ill will of all the world that only a great victory can help us.

Just consider: We have not the hate only of our enemies, but practically of all neutrals with the possible exception of Sweden and German Switzerland. And then think that the cause of the war was Serbia. We are none the less regarded all over the world as the instigators.

Get the pamphlet which appeared in Holland and which is propaganda for an international league after the war against "Jewish, parvenus, Germany," who "intrudes everywhere." Although overflowing with hatred toward us, it unfortunately contains a good deal of truth.

In England the entire nation is carrying on the war with the greatest enthusiasm and building tenacity. Our people are doing that too, but how can we close with the building, particularly as seven other dogs are harassing us.

Editor's note: Compare this admiration with German propaganda in this country which at the same time claimed that England was half-hearted in the war, and that its conduct was causing serious political and social discontent. German agents were also spreading through France reports that England was not seriously conducting the war.

Charlville, October 19, 1914.—This morning the chancellor invited me to a conference on peace. To think of peace now! One would think we were already beaten. I cannot talk peace until we have complete victory.

We expect a big battle in a few days. In grand victory. We need it bitterly.

I agree fully with the article by Carl Peters with the exception of treating badly the English who are now in Germany.

Peters resided in England until the outbreak of the war. In the case of 24 German and Austrian corps are confronted by 43 Russian. The Austrians count about half the Turks are already calling for munitions and we have none to spare, quite apart from the fact that Romania will allow no arms to pass.

Charlville, November 13, 1914.—My attempt to have Plow replaced by Buelow in Rome has failed because of objections by the chancellor. After the war I shall become a socialist and pick out some lamp posts and not a few either, for if things are to be better the whole Hydra must be attacked.

Charlville, November 14, 1914.—We shall not get to Calais. It is a drawn game and will remain so, but do not speak about it. In the north both sides confront each other completely exhausted. We have lost about 100,000 men there alone. We have no new corps to replace them.

I have just spoken to Col. von Marschall, of the cabinet, who was, like all the others here, of the opinion that the other side would not find out our losses, and that England cannot bring up as many reinforcements as we can. That may be true, but a drawn game on land is bad without a fleet to help. Yesterday there was very bad news from the Black Sea, where Turkish munition ships were torpedoed and the Turks are without ammunition. Who will be able to hold out the longest?

Charlville, November 15, 1914.—The quality of the English troops is not so high as it was, but only at the start. The face of great bloodshed can make even the smallest advance against them. At the same time this plate state is pressing in so unheard of a manner on the neutrals that we shall soon be in a bad way in regard to many necessary articles such as powder, motor tires, etc.

The minister of war, Von Falkenhayn, seems to be looking for a way out through France rather than Russia. I think this is a mistake as France will cling to Russia, her ally.

CITY COULD EFFECT TEACHERS' RAISE

City Club Indorses Assumption of Interest and Sinking Fund by City.

The City club has indorsed a resolution recommending that the city government assume the payment of interest and sinking fund on bond issues, which is now being paid by the city board of education. This action followed the report of Dan Wolf, who was appointed by the City club to take up with the board of education the proposition of increasing the salaries of the school teachers.

At the last meeting of the board of education Mr. Wolf, holder of the bond relative to the attitude of the City club on the teachers' salary increase. The position of the board of education was explained to Mr. Wolf thoroughly at this meeting and it was on this information that Mr. Wolf reported to the City club.

The suggestion that the city government pay the interest and sinking fund was submitted to the board of education several weeks ago by Prof. Warton S. Jones, superintendent of schools, as a means of increasing the revenue of the board by $150,000 annually, thereby providing a means of increasing the salaries of the teachers in the city schools.

A meeting between the education committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the board of education is scheduled for Tuesday for the purpose of discussing ways and means of raising money to pay the teachers more money. This meeting was to have been held last Tuesday, but was postponed when only members of the board of education and one member of the Chamber of Commerce committee appeared at the meeting.

If the attendance at this meeting is sufficient, tentative plans for raising $250,000 by public subscription will be submitted for consideration.

NEW YORK CITY FACES SERIOUS FOOD SHORTAGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The most serious food shortage in its history threatened today. Mr. Judson was 24 years old. During the Roosevelt administration he served with Judson Harmon, former governor of Ohio as an official investigator into the practice of railroad rebating, while in 1913 he was former President Taft's alternate on the war labor board.

Notwithstanding persistent efforts of international officers to induce the men to return to work only 5,000 of the 40,000 men involved are working, union leaders admitted. The largest unions in the district last night voted to remain on strike.

NOTED LAWYER DIES.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—Frederick N. Judson, nationally known attorney, died here today. Mr. Judson was 74 years old. During the Roosevelt administration he served with Judson Harmon, former governor of Ohio as an official investigator into the practice of railroad rebating, while in 1913 he was former President Taft's alternate on the war labor board.

OBION VOTES HIGH SCHOOL.

OBION, Tenn., Oct. 20. (Sp.)—In an election held here Saturday to determine whether Obion would issue bonds for a high school, very little opposition appeared in the bond issue, and it carried, 4 to 1. This means a high school for Obion in the near future, adding much to this growing town.

HASTON NOT CANDIDATE.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 20. (Sp.)—State Senator E. N. Haston, of Spencer, will not be a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Third district, he stated today.

"I take Dodson's Siver Tone when headachy, sick Bilious"

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for Calomel.

"Dodson's Liver Tone" is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach.

Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.
